Who should do this training?

Managers, supervisors and any other persons who are looking for nationally recognised training that will demonstrate their competency in OHS Risk Management.

On completion of this training your candidates will have a Nationally Recognised Statement of Attainment and will have demonstrated their ability to:

1. Apply OHS Law to your work situations
2. Contribute to the implementation of OHS consultation in your workplace
3. Contribute to your workplace's OHS Management System
4. Identify, assess and eliminate or control OHS risks in your workplace
5. Carry out incident investigations and make recommendations to ensure the incidents don't happen again.

How do they do it?

They study a section of the training materials in your time or their time and then complete an activity in your workplace based on what they have just learned. This is done at their pace with telephone and email support from friendly and experienced Courtenell staff.

There is a concession price for those who have done the Courtenell non-accredited 2 day Face to Face Risk Management course in the past.*

+For those who feel they would benefit from being introduced to OHS Risk Management in a face to face environment before doing the nationally recognized training they can do Courtenell's 2 day Risk Management Course.
